

34TH LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT DEMOCRATS

Burien Georgetown Pioneer Square SODO South Park West Seattle White Center Vashon/Maury Island

Chair's Message

Hey 34th Dems:

Last night we gathered at White Center Hub's Savusa Hall for our "Your Voice. Our Future." fundraiser and our district showed up! Our theme was meant to capture something fundamental about what it means to be a Democrat and what it means to be progressive, but even more so what it means to be a community.

We have known that we must foster the trust and inspire the confidence necessary for building a unified vision, developing a message of hope, and driving toward victory. Better ideas, polished language, and louder megaphones are useless without strong, positive relationships to take us from talking to something tangible.

Sitting in echo chambers and maniacally hammering out new strategies from the top-down and inside-out will never deliver progress, because it's missing the key ingredient. Your voice.

Trust is the foundation of real political power. Establishing and maintaining it takes listening and showing up. It takes recognizing that electoral victories are not endpoints, but the next platform for leadership from which we are expected to deliver on our commitments to each other.

Our district is home to nearly a dozen unions representing longshore and warehouse workers, machinists, boilermakers, food workers, service employees, and textile workers. We are home to dozens of current and former elected officials on the front lines of change, and we take being a hub of leadership extremely seriously. There have been, and will be, opportunities for us to demonstrate that leadership and affect real change.

It's an honor and privilege to do this work alongside all of you.

In Solidarity,
—Jordan Crawley
Chair, 34th Dems

Democrats At Work: Adopt-A-Street Work Party

11 of us turned out to make for easy work cleaning up our Adopt-A-Street, 16th Ave Southwest. We gathered 7 bags of trash. Ted and Heather Barker, Karen Richter, Jordan Crawley, Layne Bautista, Sarah Schiam, and Steve Butts all turned out. Chris Weiss and Les Erb from the 33rd Democrats also came to help, as did 34th Representative candidate Mary Anito and her daughter.

Heather and Ted Barker, with Karen Richter before heading out to pick up some trash.

Mary Anito and daughter is next to Chris Weiss, as Les Erb poses on the right at the end of the work party.

In Case You Missed It...

Our May Meeting Recap

Pre-Meeting Program: Ranked-Choice Voting

Ranked Choice Voting is coming to Seattle. In 2022, we voted to use the method for city elections in a 2-part initiative in which we were asked to change the voting system or keep the existing method.

Voters then picked either

Ranked Choice,

or Approval voting, a similar system. Change to our system won out, and Ranked Choice Voting was selected as our new process starting in 2027.

Ranked-choice voting (RCV) is a method of voting for candidates in the order you prefer: 1st choice, 2nd choice, 3rd choice, and so on. If your first choice doesn't win, your vote counts for your next choice. The process is used in diverse places...from Alaska to New York City. Often referred to as Instant Run-off Voting, it can be used to eliminate a Primary. In our case, Washington State requires us to hold a Primary to pick two candidates for the November ballot.

In preparation of the new system. Elise Orlick,

Executive Director of FairVote WA, gave a presentation on RCV. We will use the system in the 2027 primary to decide which Seattle City Council candidates will advance to the General Election that year.

A demonstration ballot was given to members who ranked their choice for favorite Northwest animal to simulate how a RCV election works. Team Orca won.

For more information, visit fairvotewa.org

Land Acknowledgement

Rachel Glass, 1st Vice Chair recited the Land Acknowledgement. Rachel highlighted the local

Elise Orlick from FairVote WA explains Ranked Choice Voting

organization Chief Seattle Club as a group that members can contribute to further support Seattle area Indigenous Peoples.

Chief Seattle Club is a Native-led housing and human services agency which believes “that a world without homelessness is possible by leading with Native values”. They provide “sacred space to nurture, affirm, and strengthen the spirit of urban Native people”.

To donate and learn more of the organization visit chiefseattleclub.org

Campaign Spotlights

Milena Sherman from the group No Hate in WA State spoke to ask us to support their NO position on initiatives IL26-001 and IL26-638, both of which will be on the November 3rd ballot.

IL26-001 would repeal legislative changes made to the "Parents' Bill of Rights passed by the Legislature in 2025. It would undo protections for vulnerable students. IL26-001 will force schools to hand over sensitive information they learn of about potential child abuse victims to their parental abusers.

IL26-638 will subject all girls wishing to participate in team sports to invasive medical exams to prove that they are biologically female. Only girls...as the initiative does not apply to boys wishing to play sports.

We also heard from Jen Southwell from the Seattle Public Library system who asked for our support for the 2026 Library Levy Renewal on the August 4th Primary ballot.

Candidates for various offices rose to speak about their campaigns:

- Joe Fitzgibbon is running for reelection for 34th District Rep. Pos. 2.
- Mary Anito is also running for 34th Rep. Pos. 2.
- Theo Angelis was appointed to the State Supreme Court Pos. 5 in March by Governor Ferguson and is running for a full term.
- Mike Diaz is a candidate for State Supreme Court Pos. 3
- Gabe Rothstein is running for Seattle Municipal Court Judge Pos. 5

Precinct Leadership

Chair Jordan Crawley introduced New PCOs. Trent Grohe who stood for appointment to SEA 34-1455, and Patrick McKee is taking over for Precinct SEA 34-1466.

Jen Southwell explains the Seattle Public Library levy renewal to be on the Primary ballot.

Rep. Joe Fitzgibbon speaks about his work in Olympia in the recently concluded session.

Mary Anito introduces herself as a new candidate for 34th Representative.

Early Endorsements

Our newly amended bylaws allow for early endorsements. An exemption is now made for any sole Democratic candidate in a race that will allow them to be endorsed at a May meeting, rather than through our traditional endorsement process at the June meeting.

A slate was presented that included ballot measures and eligible candidates:

- Emily Alvarado, 34th District Senator
- Brianna Thomas, 34th District Rep., Pos. 1
- Leesa Manion, King County Prosecuting Attorney
- Katharine Edwards, Seattle Municipal Court
- Support for the Seattle Library Levy
- No on both IL26-001 and IL26-638

Other endorsements were put forward. They required a Consideration of Endorsement vote as there are other Democrats in those races. The threshold needed to be 80% in favor. Using this method, we also endorsed US Representative Pramila Jayapal, and King County Councilperson Teresa Mosqueda. The vote to consider the endorsement of State Representative Joe Fitzgibbon failed to reach the threshold. He will be up for endorsement again at the June meeting.

A Resolution Calling for Actions to Reduce the Influence of X, Formerly Known as Twitter

This resolution was submitted by Kenny Austin. It asks the 34th District Democrats to redirect traffic from messages shared on X to either our own website, or alternate social media platforms, and not send traffic to X from 34th District Democrats communications, shifting users off of the X platform and decreasing interaction and monetization of the site. We passed this resolution without objection.

Open Discussion on Possible Statewide Actions

Chair Crawley described the current political realities in Washington State:

- 2 statewide reactionary initiatives will be on the November ballot.
- 33 conservative initiatives are in the signature gathering process.
- Democrats need to counter with an organized effort against these regressive proposals.
- Democrats are also just 3 Senate seats and 7 House seats away from a supermajority.

Jordan then asked members for their thoughts and what we could do to counteract the conservation actions across the state. The input from those at the meeting included:

- Eileen Cody: People out doorbelling is more effective than money.
- Melina Sherman: Conservatives are focusing on Eastern Washington and other areas outside of Seattle to expand their message.

- Chris Porter noted that Tina Podalodoski worked on supporting Democrats in Red areas.
- Colton Myers mentioned a candidate in the 35th LD who deserves support, as did another person who brought up a race in the 14th LD.
- Micheal Taylor Judd spoke about the coordination across the state to pass marriage equality in 2012.
- Postcards to voters in other districts could be effective.
- Rachel Glass reminded us that multiple and varied “touches” of communication are important to sway individuals to your side.

- Hannah Cameron will put up a Slack Channel devoted to potential races to be involved in and as a place for ideation.
- Chris Porter felt that we must counteract the large conservative highway signs in rural areas.
- Richard Bartlett reminded us of the actions the 34th took by going to the 15th LD in Central Washington.

Announcements

Chair Crawley made note of activities coming up.

- The 34th Democrats annual fundraiser would be on May 30th at the Savusa Hall at the White Center HUB.
- West Seattle Joiners were showing the film “Join or Die” at the Highline High School on May 15th, followed by a Joiners Jamboree at the school on the 16th.
- An Adopt-A-Street work party would take place on May 23th.
- The Monthly Pop Up Social would be on May 29th at Ounces Taproom.

Good of the Order

Steve Butts announced that the 34th would share a booth with the 33rd Democrats at Burien Pride on June 6.

Chris Porter rose to say that he would lead a Pollinator Walk on Union Bay on May 23rd.

KCDCC Special Pre-Primary Endorsement Meeting, May 18th, 2026

On Monday, May 18, the King County Democratic Central Committee replaced its regularly scheduled fourth Tuesday monthly meeting with a special endorsement meeting. The date change was necessary to allow endorsed candidates to include their endorsements in the 2026 Primary Election Voter Pamphlet, which had a deadline of May 19.

The Agenda and March 2026 meeting minutes were approved. Upon nomination by Rickey Klein, Lisa Dawson was unanimously elected to be KCDCC Vice-Chair for Fundraising.

The slate of recommended candidates, with the exception of those marked with “*” was approved for adoption on a 48 Yes - 1 No vote. Candidates Smith and Trasen were pulled from the slate for discussion, but also received enough votes to earn endorsements.

Following the vote to endorse all candidates recommended by the committee, the floor was opened for additional nominations for KCDCC endorsement. These are the candidates/offices nominated from the floor:

Josh Schaer	NE Dist. Court Judge Pos.1#
Melissa Chaudry	U.S. Rep. District 9#
Garman Newsome II	Seattle Municipal Court Pos. 5#
Chris Roberts	King County Assessor#
Toshiko Hasegawa	King Co. Council Dist. 2#
Julie Kang	Seattle City Council District 5#
Jamie Hawk	State Supreme Court Pos. 3#
Sean O'Donnell	State supreme Court Pos. 4#
Sharon Amamilo	State Supreme Court Pos. 5#

None of these candidates received enough votes for endorsement. Candidates marked with “#” were seeking dual endorsement for offices where KCDCC members had already endorsed other candidates earlier in this meeting.

Following the endorsement, Chair Bazley reminded members to get their Pride T-shirts, PCO Chair Amy Hamrick reported on progress of filling empty PCO positions, Tim Burns urged us to begin our GOTV efforts as soon as possible, and many offered kudos to Kat Pipkin and Dean Rodenbough for their work on preparing the endorsements.

Legislative Town Hall — 34th’s Olympia Delegation Gives a 2026 Debrief

Senator Emily Alvarado

Rep. Brianna Thomas

Rep. Joe Fitzgibbon

Senator Emily Avarado, and Representatives Brianna Thomas and Joe Fitzgibbon sat down on May 8th with constituents of the 34th LD to field questions and relate legislative successes and disappointments.

Chair Jordan Crawley described the recently finished session in which there were over 700 bills introduced, 270 of which were passed. Washington State enjoys a trifecta in state government...Democrats occupy every elected position in our government, and control both Houses in the Legislature. Jordan pointed out that Democrats are just 3 senators, and 7 House members from a supermajority...a goal to keep in mind as we head into elections this year.

Questions were submitted from members, and were also posed by attendees, on subjects ranging for law and order, healthcare and human services, to the environment and nuclear power.

Washington is a leader in bucking the Trump Administration, and fittingly the panel started out by listing some of that pushback in law enforcement just passed. Sen. Alvarado pointed to actions taken such as no masks for ICE agents or other law enforcement officers, and restrictions on license plate data capture that can be used to identify immigrants. Other actions include no fake LE insignias. In addition, new qualifications have also been put into place for elected sheriffs.

A question was about nuclear energy, and the state’s poor history of managing cost overruns, such as the “Whoops” fiasco in the 1980’s. Could a recent push for new nuclear power plants leave counties and cities on the hook? Rep. Fitzgibbon responded that all power sources have drawbacks, but fossil fuels are the worst...and that all other sources need to be looked at as replacement...including nuclear in that mix. Solar and wind are intermittent, and we have been importing energy from California, but they will form the basis of our grid.

Can Washington State achieve universal childcare? Rep. Thomas responded with the fact that the systems in place now severely hamper parents with non-regular, unpredictable schedules. Increased pay for daycare center workers also must be increased, it’s very expensive to fund training, and to provide space. More help is needed from employers in this effort.

A question on technical instruction brought out the fact that Seattle Central College woodworking programs are under budgeting threats. Senator Alvarado pointed out that those programs feed into the trades, which are AI proof. But funding is tight and choices are tough to make.

Can we expect an increase in state revenue? The “millionaire’s tax” will begin in 2029, leaving sales and property taxes as the primary sources of money. It was pointed out that special tax exemptions once put in place are difficult to revoke.
